Message:

When districts look like strange puzzle pieces as opposed to fair, normal shaped districts representing a specific region, it is clear that unfair gerrymandering practices are taking place.

Government is supposed to represent will of the people, to be voted in by the people, not manipulated to represent politicians wishes and minority rule.

As a citizen of Texas I am calling for fair and equal representation and as such, districting should reflect fair representation of the people that reside in that geographical location. The census data should not matter and the borders should not be redrawn based on racial lines and demographics.
