Message:

I would like to voice my concern over the district lines in Texas. I live in Austin and my city is split into so many tiny districts that our voice as a city is not adequately represented. I myself feel that my district better represents the portion of the hill country that it covers. Subsequently that portion is the largest coverage of our entire district. I am active in communicating with my representatives, and still never feel like I am heard. We need to draw our district lines so that every Texan has a voice.

Texas is better than gerrymandering to keep certain groups in power. It is time we have our citizens have a vote that counts.
