Message:

Please reconsider dividing Montgomery county into three pieces for the redistricting process. I can't even tell which piece I would be in from the proposed maps due to the randomness of it. I understand y'all are trying to preserve the Republican strength, but making things more confusing for people is not the way. People want to know their representation knows them and their problems. If I'm in a district that runs to San Antonio- not helpful. Or one that runs along the coast around bolivar- same problem. Or down to the west side of Harris county? Stick to the county lines. It's easier for everyone to understand
