Message:

The proposed redistricting it's just evident of the fact that a certain party is afraid of changing demographics and they have to carve out districts in ways that will help them win and not following any sort of other process. Why don't we just make districts squarely lineup with counties? Just make all of the district Square. The proposed district between Tarrant and Dallas county actually has districts inside of that district.

I don't think it is too much to ask to be fairly represented and not have my district carved up to boost Republican House chances next term.
